Berlin Air Lift

Although farm commodity prices have drifted lower in recent months and the peak of the post-war boom seems to have passed, the basic position of American agriculture is probably as strong today as that of any other line of business.

The conservative Wall Street Journal indicated as much this week when it hinted that farmers, far from being actually hard hit, are merely tightening up the family purse strings to maintain their present position.

"Most folks around here," the financial paper quoted a Tulsa (Okla.) farmer as saying, "realize farm commodity prices were too high. And most of us knew they had to come down some time. But now we are going to sort of sit tight on buying and selling on other things come down some too."

And that's what they are saying about the farm situation in Wall Street.

Regarding our own section, the February Monthly Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reports:

"The break in farm prices that came early in 1948 and the more gradual decline in the Fall and Winter, brought a marked readjustment in these prices. For the year, however, farm prices averaged higher than in 1947 and farm income also was higher. But at year end the outlook was for lower district farm income in 1949."

That's not an ominous report, however. The fact is that Arkansas' cash farm income in 1948—taken as a whole—was the highest in history, up 11 per cent over 1947, and up 30 per cent from 1946.

Sometimes a wise-crack earns respect by stirring up facts that wouldn't otherwise attract the public interest. In a speech before the Executive Club of Chicago the St. Air Secretary, W. Stuart Symington, said about the Berlin Air Lift:

"Someone recently remarked that Operations Vittles was 'a Rolls Royce delivery service to the world's largest poorhouse.'"

It is a good wise-crack. It is expensive freight transportation. But here is the other side:

"The air lift is preventing starvation among a population some two-thirds as large as that of Chicago."

Landings at the Berlin airport are spaced three minutes apart in good weather, five minutes in bad weather. The schedule is so tight that if a pilot fails to land on his first pass he has to return with his load to the loading point.

Very few returns are necessary—a tribute to the skill of the operation.

"In six months' operation so far it has cost 16 American lives, against 223 lives daily in World War II."

Records so far indicate that the money cost of Vittles for an entire year will be approximately that of World War II for a single day.

While Operations Vittles is being accomplished by a military organization, no force is involved.

"This is air power at work for peace!"

Unrest Behind Iron Curtain Is Mounting

Editors note.

In recent months there have been fragmentary reports of unrest behind the Iron Curtain. Now, from documentary reports from sources in Eastern Europe, the United Press is able to give the clearest picture yet drawn of the extent of the underground activity against Communist rule. The sources from which this material was obtained cannot be revealed, for obvious reasons, nor is it possible to reveal at this time how access to these documentary reports was obtained. Every effort has been made, however, to be certain of their authenticity.

By JACK MEEHAN

Frankfurt, Germany, Feb. 17 — (UP) — Growing underground resistance forces against Communism are stirring in the Soviet Union's own Ukraine and in each of Russia's satellites behind the iron curtain.

Altogether some 200,000 to 400,000 armed men already are said to be striking against their Communist masters with the same sabotage and terror tactics that ultimately helped topple Adolf Hitler's Nazi empire.

Country by country, here is the story of the underground struggle against Communism in Russia's backyard, as pieced together from documented reports:

Ukraine

The well-trained Ukrainian partisan army, 50,000 to 200,000 strong, has been fighting regular Russian and Polish troops since May 1944. It seeks to liberate the Ukraine from Soviet and Polish domination and already has chosen a president, cabinet ministers and parliament for an independent government.

The government, known as the Ukrainian free people's regime, is an offshoot of the German-sponsored Ukrainian independence movement. It broke away and joined the partisans when the ill-fated Warsaw uprising of 1944 shattered hopes for a free Ukraine.

The partisan army has machine-guns, some light artillery and even a few tanks in addition to small arms. Most were captured or stolen from the Soviet and Polish armies.

The army's usual tactics are to ambush Russian and Polish troops on patrols and marches and to blow up bridges as supply trains pass over them.

Commander of the mysterious army is believed to be Stefan Bendera who moves constantly among his scattered troops, adopting many disguises and never stopping for more than a few days in one spot. He is public enemy No. 1 on the Soviet and Polish secret police lists for the Ukraine.

Poland

Upwards of 100,000 wanted men stalk the Polish forests waiting for a time when their isolated clashes with the Polish Communist forces flare into open revolt. They are members of the A. K., the outlawed Polish home army, pledged to the overthrow of the Communist government of Poland.

Romania

Twenty groups, bearing such exotic names as "Black Cloak," "White Eagle" and "Waves of the Danube" are active. The leader of the "Black Cloak," Admiral Horatio MacClarie, former commander of the Romanian Black Sea fleet, escaped recently after being sentenced to forced labor as a resistance leader.

Bulgaria

Some 10,000 followers of Nikola Petkov, executed by the Communist regime, attacked government forces from the Rhoopie and Staphin mountains last summer with a fury that frightened the government.

Albania

Resistance groups have attacked Communist forces. Anti-government activity by disorganized armed bands and native tribesmen also has been reported.

State Seeks to Make Truckers Pay More Tax

Little Rock, Feb. 17 — (AP) — Heavy trucks, which often have been blamed for tearing up the state's highways, would be taxed more under a proposed tax revision system.

Identical bills were offered yesterday in the Arkansas house and senate.

Governor McMath said they would increase the state an additional $3,000,000 annually.

The revenue and taxation committees of the two houses scheduled a public hearing on the proposed new rates next Monday night. Fees would be imposed on trucks and trailers on the basis of actual weight when loaded. These fees would range from $12 to $750 annually.

The bills also would impose a mileage tax rate ranging from two to 25 cents per mile depending on gross weight.

If they preferred, truckers could pay a flat rate of 45 cents per 100 pounds of gross weight on trucks from 4,500 to 6,000 pounds of 70 cents per 100 pounds of gross weight on trucks from 6,000 to 12,000 pounds.

Red Press Plays Up Appointment of Eisenhower

Moscow, Feb. 17 — (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's appointment as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff is receiving considerable attention from the Soviet press.

Most newspapers published a dispatch credited to a Washington correspondent of the London Observer saying the appointment was connected with formation of an American general staff to deal with planning military aid to Europe.

It also is being asserted that Eisenhower will devote his attention to the Mediterranean area. As for the headline: "Coming Arrival—Eisenhower in Greece."

One commentator said the U.S. is seeking to get all the countries of the middle East as well as Iran, Afghanistan, India and Pakistan into the proposed North Atlantic pact. Another commentator said the efforts were in progress to reconcile the United States and Mediterranean countries with Spain.

Unemployment Costing U. S. 40 Million Week

By CHARLES H. HEROLD

Washington, Feb. 17 — (UP) — The government estimated today that it is paying $40,000,000 a week to the unemployed.

This cushion provides persons temporarily out of work with about two-fifths of their average weekly earnings, government figures showed.

The federal bureau of employment security said that unemployment compensation increases voted by state legislatures last year has raised average weekly payments to the jobless to $20. The figure was $18.05 in 1948 and $17.83 in 1947.

President Truman has asked congress to set federal standards of up to $25 a week for 26 weeks.

The present rate of payments to the jobless is $20.00 a week. The unemployment compensation funds hold $7,000,000,000. Last year expenditures were $79,000,000.

The house yesterday passed and sent to the senate a deficiency appropriation bill to provide an additional $10,000,000 in grants to states to administer unemployment compensation and operate state employment offices.

Much of this money would be used to hire more workers to handle the recent rise in applications for unemployment compensation. There were 1,707,351 continuing claims and 348,225 new claims filed in the states in the week ended Feb. 5.

Rep. Frank B. Keefe, R., Wis., urging the house to approve the additional funds, said the unemployment situation is "growing critical all over this country." Rep. Earl Wilson, R., Ind., said "the Truman depression is on."

Rep. Keefe said that the unemployment situation is "growing critical all over this country." Rep. Earl Wilson, R., Ind., said "the Truman depression is on."

He pointed out that during last summer's election campaign, when he advocated monthly benefits of $30, there were approximately 50,000 persons on the state's old age pension lists. Today, there are more than 62,000.

"It is going to be absolutely necessary to screen these rolls to insure that only needy cases are listed," the governor said.

McMath said he favored a bill introduced in the senate to give the welfare department a lien on property owned by old age pensioners. The bill would provide that on the death of such pensioners, state would be reimbursed for amounts paid to the pensioners and the remainder to go to their estates.

McMath said:

"We have many cases where old folks own their homes, have educated their children and their children are in a position to contribute to their support. If the state assumes a duty which those children should perform, then the state should have a lien on the property of those who have received the money it has spent to maintain these old people with reasonable degree of dignity in their declining years."

McMath also said the state should encourage persons on welfare rolls to learn crafts and should encourage their creative ability in an effort to increase their means of livelihood. He added that they should not be penalized for amounts they earn through such crafts.

Eight-Year-Old to Get a Pair of Ears

Pittsburgh, Feb. 17 — (AP) — Eight-year-old Jimmy Mead owns finally is going to have a pair of ears but it'll not be for another two years and after six to eight operations.

The Hartstown, Pa., boy was born without ears. The ones he is going to get will grow in his abdominal cavity.

In a series of operations starting today in children's hospital, Dr. S. M. Dupertuis, plastic surgeon, will remove cartilage from Jimmy's ribs and mold it into the shape of ears. The "ears" then will be placed in the boy's abdominal cavity for a period of time to foster tissue growth.

The next step will be transplanting of the ears to the head where they will function as real "ears."

Despite the lack of ear operations, Jimmy can hear normal. Doctors say he has normal auditory canals and ear drums.

Secrecy Lifts, Czech Spy Is Sentenced

Munich, German, Feb. 17 — (AP) — The U. S. Army, partially lifting a heavy veil of secrecy from a spy trial, today publicly sentenced Frantisek Kleecka, 31-year-old waiter on the Orient express, to 20 years at the hard labor.

The eight-man U. S. military commission, ordered by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, to relax its security precautions and invited the press to hear the verdict, but did not reveal the specific charge against Kleecka.

Neither would it disclose any details of the testimony taken in the past two days behind locked doors. The proceedings concern a Czechoslovak spy ring case.

The Orient Express is a famous train which threads its way through central Europe and the Balkans between France and Turkey.

Kleecka, a tall, slender man with brown, wavy hair and an intelligent appearance, seemed stunned by the sentence. He had entered the courtroom jauntily, toying with a pocket picture of a pretty brunette.

When Brig. Gen. John L. McKee announced the decision, Kleecka's lips tightened. Then he spoke. An interpreter said Kleecka had said: "I believe I am not guilty."

Kleecka had refused to reveal Kleecka's nationality. The 30 persons arrested last November on charges of spying for Czechoslovakia were of several nationalities.

Says Shortage of Steel Hurts U. S. Economy

Pittsburgh, Feb. 17 — (AP) — Phil Murray, president of the CIO and the United Steelworkers of America, says there is insufficient steel-making capacity in the U. S. for "a high level of prosperity and employment."

Murray said last night he had informed Rep. Brent (D Ky), chairman of the house banking and currency committee, that the steel workers "believe the very foundation of the economy may depend on whether or not the steel-making capacity is expanded to meet current and future needs."

The union leader, convalescing from an appendicitis operation, said he told Spence in a telegram that "steel is the real bottleneck which is holding back needed production in a whole network of industries."

Murray said his union is prepared to show that "industry" fighting capacity increases and expansion is greatly indicated.

He said he hoped to testify whenever the committee holds hearings on an administration bill to give the government power to build industrial plants if needed to speed production.

In Chicago, Dr. Louis H. Bean, economist with the U. S. department of agriculture, said that the steel industry, under present expansion plans, will fall short of the country's requirements by 10,000,000 tons a year.

"The steel industry expects to complete its expansion program attaining a total capacity of 98,500,000 tons annually by 1951."

McMath Plans to Raise Welfare Pay

Little Rock, Feb. 17 — (AP) — Arkansas welfare rolls will be screened completely in an effort to boost payments to the national level.

Governor McMath made this known at his news conference today, commenting on the $42,500,000 welfare department budget introduced in the state senate yesterday.

He said that, while the budget and other anticipated revenue will enable Arkansas to raise its payments nearer the national level, he would never meet this national average if the rolls continue to increase.

He pointed out that during last summer's election campaign, when he advocated monthly benefits of $30, there were approximately 50,000 persons on the state's old age pension lists. Today, there are more than 62,000.

"It is going to be absolutely necessary to screen these rolls to insure that only needy cases are listed," the governor said.

Mrs. Helmore was on the New York stage herself under the name Mary Dayton, and she and her husband met when she was in the company of Katharine Cornell, for whom Mrs. Helmore understudied.

Seems to Be No Doubt There Is An Element of Doubt Connected With Horse Racing

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP) — There is a theory a man can't come out ahead playing the races, because you can't win from losing.

But Fuzzy proved that sometimes a man can't lose from winning. The only catch was — he didn't end up rich because he was betting money he didn't have.

Fuzzy and Roy are two pals with a bad case of bangtail disease. For years they have been gradually "improving the breed" at the rate of $2 a race. But they haven't found the situation reversed. Roy, found the situation reversed. Roy, at the track on the same day, was up to $1,500,000. Fuzzy was down to his last $200,000.

On the last day of the bet was time to four weeks. Roy ran his money over to the first five horses. He was broke and happy.

But poor unfortunate Fuzzy, the day before he had put $10,000 on a maiden named Pilate's Dream, and he galloped home first to pay him $200,000. That was at the rate of $172 for a $2 bet. And on the last day two other nags came in, one paying $230,000 and the other $190,000.

Fuzzy at the end of the final race, had $2,000,000. In trying to pick losers he was 100 per cent ahead after 23 days of desperate betting.

So he mournfully paid Roy $2 and went home with the mythical $200,000 in his empty pocket. I asked Fuzzy if this experience had taught him a lesson.

"Yes," he said. "It has convinced me there is an element of doubt in horse racing."

Dr. Jones Asks 'Flexible' Budget

Little Rock, Feb. 17 — (AP) — The budget for the University of Arkansas should be "flexible enough" for the institution "to do its best job," believes its president.

Speaking at an alumni association dinner here last night, Dr. Lewis Wabster Jones, answered the question of the "blanket" budget the university has asked the Arkansas legislature to appropriate.

He said the school's administrative "cannot estimate exactly the years in advance every salary expense," he asked for "administrative leeway."

"If we don't spend the money wisely, then the thing to do is to fire the administrators who are responsible. X x x The university is willing to make any information in its financial operations available at any time."

Athletic Director John Barnhill asked support of the some 300 attending, which included some legislators, for the proposed $1,000,000 increase for the university.

He said university football teams were handicapped in spring practice because of lack of a field house in which they might work out when weather prohibits outdoor drills.

Governor McMath commissioned Barnhill an Arkansas traveler, said he thought "the legislature should give you a fieldhouse."

Kaiser-Frazer Closes Plant for 3 Weeks

Detroit, Feb. 17 — (AP) — A shutdown of possibly three weeks at Kaiser-Frazer Corp's Willow Run plant was announced by the management today.

It was attributed to plans for the production of two new utility model cars. Starting at the close of business today it will edle about 7,000 production workers who have been on a four-days a week schedule.

Meanwhile 17,000 Hudson Motor and U. S. Rubber employees returned to work today after two days of idleness.

K-F has been building slightly under 300 cars a day since its recent production cutback.

The new utility models, going into production ahead of schedule, look like standard sedans but use light like light trucks or station wagons. One, called the Traveler, will retail at the factory for $2,088, including accessories. It will be the lowest price car in the K-F line.

Co-Author of Labor Bill Heads Union

Washington, Feb. 17 — (UP) — Former Rep. Fred A. Hartley, Jr. (R-N. J.), co-author of the Taft-Hartley act, is the new president of the tool owners union.

The union, founded in 1946, claims to represent property owners, investors, small business men and farmers. Hartley said there are 50,000,000 persons in this category—"the forgotten majority" in this nation.

"These 50,000,000 middle-class people who own America's tools," he said, "have just as much right to bargain for the use of the mechanical energy supplied by the tools as have the 16,000,000 organized tool users (union workers) to bargain for the use of their mental and muscular energy."

Hartley retired from congress at the end of the last session.

Says Russia Still Has No Atomic Bomb

Washington, Feb. 17 — (UP) — The military has "intelligence" that Russia still possesses no atomic bombs, an army general reported today.

In an article on "Industrial vulnerability to bombing," Maj. Gen. C. R. Robinson of the army engineers disclosed that:

"The best intelligence indicates that our major potential enemy does not now have an atomic bomb."

Others, among them Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, wartime head of the U. S. atomic bomb project, have voiced the "opinion" that Russia is not prepared for atomic war. They frankly based their opinion, however, on estimates of Russia's scientific and industrial capacity.

Robinson's statement was the first to attribute such beliefs to intelligence data. He did not disclose how or where they were obtained.

Writing in "The Military Engineer," a technical publication, Robinson said "intelligence" also indicates that even if she had the atomic bomb Russia does not possess means of delivering it "any better, if as good as, our own."

Robinson also said that, according to the "best estimates," it will be "several years before that nation can produce" the atomic bomb in quantity and develop "carriers" to launch them from great distances.

But Robinson emphasized that "we cannot rely on this temporary situation."

He said if it meant was "the height of folly" not to assume Russia is trying as hard as possible to make atomic bombs.

Consumers May Pay More for Liquor

Little Rock, Feb. 17 — (AP) — Arkansas liquor consumers will pay another tax if a bill passed by the senate also is approved by the house and the governor.

The measure would place whiskey, wine, beer and other alcoholic beverages under the state's 2 per cent retail sales tax. They are now exempt.

Only debate before the bill was adopted, 24-10, yesterday was on a provision to earmark the first $750,000 of any revenue for purchase of voting machines.

Phase brought on a warm discussion.

Under the bill the state would buy the machines and place them in precincts which normally poll as many as 350 votes. Sen. Ernest Manger of Benton, the bill's author, said the installation would be on an optional basis; they would not be forced on a community which didn't want them, Manger said.

The senate received four appropriation bills calling for expenditures of $154,290,667 in the next two years. Largest proposed allotment was $1,871,860 for the state welfare department. The second largest was $82,500,000 annually for the highway department.

One-Day Session to Hear Truman Is Approved

By JIM THOMASSON

Little Rock, Feb. 17 — (AP) — The Arkansas house today approved a one-day special session of the legislature in June to hear an address by President Truman.

It adopted a resolution by Reps. Eugene Fleeman of Mississippi, county and Land Payne of Clay county calling for a special session at which members would serve without pay. The resolution now goes to the senate for consideration.

President Truman will be in Arkansas in June to attend the session of the 35th division and he indicated that he would address a joint session of the legislature at that time.

The house soundly defeated a bill to make false swearing a misdemeanor. It was introduced by Rep. W. F. Rector of Pulaski county, who said it was in addition to present laws on perjury.

Rep. Roy Dunn of Logan county, charged it would give "corporations and insurance companies too much advantage over the poor devil." The house rejected the bill 13-38.

FIRST BASE STOLEN

he was graduated from Cornell, Howard Hawks' motion picture record runs the gamut of progress from property assistant to producer-director.

His present standing in the film industry is evidenced by the fact that recently he has been able to choose his own vehicles, select his own studio connections and, when he cares to do so, produce his own pictures, such as he has done with "Red River." This is the exciting picture which over the Chisholm Trail from Texas to Kansas, and has a starring cast that includes John Wayne, Montgomery Clift, Joanne Dru, and Walter Brennan.

Hawks' more important pictures include: "The Dawn Patrol," "Scarface," "Twentieth Century," "Ceiling Zero," "Come and Get It," "Only Angels Have Wings," "Barbary Coast," "Sergeant York," "Ball of Fire," "To Have and Have Not," and "The Big Sleep."

He is also famous for the number of stars he has discovered and brought into the limelight by his astute direction. Hawks gave Paul Muni and George Raft their first important screen roles in "Scarface."

Next came Brian Donlevy and Walter Brennan in "Barbary Coast." The late Carole Lombard was the first of his famous girl proteges and discoveries, appearing for him first in "Twentieth Century" opposite John Barrymore. Rita Hayworth and Lauren Bacall owe their rise to stardom to Hawks.

Now, in "Red River," two of Hawks' most recent finds are appearing in starring roles—Joanne Dru and Montgomery Clift.

Mitchum Does Milking Chores Expertly

Los Angeles, Feb. 17 — (AP) — Robert Mitchum, who started his movie career as a cowboy, began his stay in the Wayside prison and quite expertly, too.

Denying he had ever milked, the husky actor showed considerable skill in helping Daisy Mae, a prison farm cow, produce a bucket of milk.

Mitchum and seven other prisoners were taken to the farm yesterday from the county jail. Today the film hero begins his new job of making cement blocks seven hours a day.

Mitchum hated to leave his cell in the jail narcotics ward. He said he felt some men at the honor camp might resent his being in the movies. Also, he added, "my wife came to see me every day there." She can only visit him on Sundays at the farm.

However, he will have more freedom at the farm. And he'll get three squares a day, instead of two meals and a luncheon of soup in jail.

Mitchum and Actress Lila Leeds were sentenced to serve 60 days each for conspiring to possess marijuana. They have served eight days of their sentences, which may be cut to 50 days because of good behavior.

POP Goes the QUEEN

THE STORY: John Henry and Sin Conover, vacationing at a home in the Wayside prison, are occupied by Faye Jordan, under the pretext of a reservation mixup. At a swimming pool Sin is cornered by Sagmon Robot.

Faye stepped blithely forward, and John Henry followed. He squinted in the reception hall, his eyes accustomed to himself to the murkiness. The man who had opened the door teetered on squeaky leather shoes. He was dressed in a black bow tie. There was a lot of him.

"Are we late?" Faye asked. "No," he replied. "Never." John Henry realized he was either butler or guard. "Your card, madame?" Faye flipped her fingers and the man caught the card deftly. John Henry had the card to see in and he was disappointed. The drop of his stomach let him know his self-appointed investigation had been based on pretty flimsy grounds.

For the card bore no queen symbol. Whorls and lines of patterned engraving followed the edge, like those on a bond or a bank note. In the center was simply a straight black line followed by a large C.

"Certainly, the butler said respectfully. 'You will forgive these precautions—' his pin-point eyes eased the pair 'but they have been found to be necessary. My name is Sidney, madame.'

"I'm Miss Jordan, Sidney. And this is Mr. Conover."

Sidney bowed again and waved them farther into the dimness. He walked silently behind them down the long hall. It got darker and darker.

At the end of the lengthy corridor, there was nothing but a heavy drape. Conover stopped short and the butler stepped ahead of him. "If you please," said Sidney. "He pulled the material aside and beneath it was a large curved doorway. John Henry rubbed his ear. The music had sneaked up on him. Beyond the door that Sidney was opening, a band was playing furiously, bravely.

The butler brushed by him again and John Henry had the impression that quick hands had patted over his coat. Faye squealed.

The stark fluorescent light that poured down from the ceiling of the room beyond blinded him at first. Faye's impetus sent him through the doorway and John Henry blinked around.

After the lonely gloomy entry the place was a shock. It was a big square room, low-ceilinged and almost completely functional. The complete absence of windows made the walls seem blind and featureless.

"Uh-huh," grunted John Henry as he began to catch on. "He pulled through which they had entered stood a bank of slot machines—stubby iron pillars from whose heads dials of lithographed fruit pictures peered. Opposite them were a series of chuck-a-luck table with hour-glass cages of dice. Packed close down the center of the casino were fat and noker tables and at the far end was the long green board and dark disk of the roulette wheel.

"Isn't this fun?" Faye bubbled at his side.

Though it was barely 11 o'clock, the wheel was in full spin. Men and women of all ages bordered the board. The card tables gripped another quota of gamblers, amateur and professional.

John Henry looked wryly down at Faye. "What's the big idea dragging me out here?" he asked. "What you need is a drink," Faye answered confidently.

The bar was quasi-separated from the square gambling room by an archway which cut off some of the juke-box loudness. Its only lights were the pink neon facings on the big mirror. A solitary man hunched on one of the leather-topped bar stools. The mess-jacketed bartender was polishing glasses and softly whistling the opening strains of the Orpheus in Hades Overture.

Faye banged a small fist on the bar. The whistling choked off and the bartender blinked. "Yes, madame?"

"I'm buying. What'll you have, pardner?"

"I don't know. You order," said John Henry, avoiding the bartender's accusing glance.

"Two rye. Straight," said Faye. Conover looked among the flushed faces of the milling gamblers in the main room. "What gets me," he mused, "is by they do all this. It's against the law, you know."

"But it's thrilling," Faye chorled and shrugged up close, shivering.

John Henry edged away. "I'm surprised the police haven't cracked down. Don't tell me they don't know this place exists." He grunted exasperatedly and spun around to the drinks on the bar. "Just what I've thought since last night—they're a bunch of crooked cops."

He looked in the bar mirror at the eyes of Lieutenant Lay. "Morning, Mr. Conover," said the lanky police officer sardonically. "I didn't expect to see you again so soon."

He sat beside John Henry, one stool removed. Close enough, Conover realized sickeningly, to have heard every syllable.

DOROTHY DIX Impudent Daughter

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have a 17-year-old girl who says I have no right to dictate to her; that she is old enough to do what she likes, and who questions me as to why I do this and don't do that, and who insults me and is very impudent to me.

I have always made a perfect slave of myself for her and have tried to win her love and respect, but, alas, I have neither. What is your advice?

A MOTHER

Answer: There are untold numbers of other women who face the same problem that you do, and who do not know what to do with headstrong young girls who do not show their mothers the respect and consideration that they would show to a servant. And nobody knows how to deal with these egotistic, arrogant young upstarts.

They are too old to be given the spanking they so richly deserve. You cannot reason with them because their concept is so colossal that they think they know it all, and they consider their parents doddering imbeciles whose views are too antiquated and senile to be worth listening to.

You cannot appeal to their hearts because they have none. They are as hard as rocks, and the only human being for whom they have the slightest affection is themselves. You cannot tell them that unless they show you proper respect and speak civilly to you, you will no longer feed and clothe them, because you dare not throw a young girl out on the streets.

Mother Is Powerless
So your love and tenderness and the poor, silly, young creature's helplessness render you powerless to defend yourself against her. You know, if she doesn't, what would happen to her if she were left without the protection of the home she so deposes, without the help of her mother whom she holds in such contempt.

The only thing you can do is to stage a strike. Refuse to do another hand's turn of work for your daughter. If her meals were not cooked, her room not cleaned and her clothes not laundered, it might bring her to her senses, and make her realize how much you mean to her. But the time to teach a girl to treat her mother with respect and deference is in the cradle. After she is grown, it is too late.

Dear Dorothy Dix: What do you think of married men who run around with young girls? A TEENAGER
Answer: If I should tell you what I really think about married men who have affairs with "young girls" you would need to put on asbestos earplugs. I think there is no other such cad in the world as the married man who makes love to a girl whom he knows he cannot marry and to whom he can offer nothing but a disgraceful liaison. "To marry her" is a vain and meaningless word. A girl's whole life is willing to ruin a girl's whole life and to bring disgrace upon her, because he knows the girl will be sent to Coventry and people will believe the worst of her, while they will only shrug their shoulders at him and say that he is a devil of a fellow among the women.

Certainly man's inhumanity to women is never more fully illustrated than by the married men who run around with girls for their is a double crime—against the girls and against their wives. They wreck the girl's lives and break the hearts of their wives. No man is so yellow as the married man who makes love to young girls.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Our only daughter is engaged to a man who will not come to see her when her father and I are at home. We have met him only twice. We have invited him on various occasions to have dinner with us, but he always refuses. What do you think of this attitude on his part?

WORRIED PARENTS
Answer: I think that this unwillingness to come to see your daughter in her own home when her parents are there is most unusual, and I should be suspicious of his having sinister designs. A decent, honorable young man would prefer to visit a girl in her own home, where she has proper background, and to get acquainted with her parents.

My advice to your husband is to make a thorough investigation of this young man's past life, before he gives him his daughter in marriage.

Delays Action on Water Rights Bill

Little Rock, Feb. 17.—(AP)—An Arkansas senate committee last night postponed action on a bill for a water rights law.

After a three-hour public hearing the conservation of natural resources committee announced it would vote on the matter later. The bill would authorize the resources and development commission to regulate use of surface water for agricultural and industrial purposes under a system of priorities. Appeals could be taken to the courts.

Most of last night's witnesses, including several residents of the Grand Prairie rice region, appeared for the bill.

Prosecutor Henry W. Smith of Pine Bluff was one of those who appeared in opposition.

Owls are NOT related to hawks and falcons although for many years it was believed they were.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler

Copyright, 1947

By King Features Syndicate.

Some will say that any unfavorable discussion of Eleanor Roosevelt is an un-American conduct. Indeed, one publication of ostensible religious flavor recently asked indignantly how long the public would put up with such evil journalism. I anticipate more of the same on the pretext that Mrs. Roosevelt is a sacred personage, but actually for the purpose of suppressing political information addressed to the people of the United States.

I believe Mrs. Roosevelt has been an evil influence and in searching for explanations have found clues in her own autobiography, "This is My Story." The daughter of a dissolute drunkard, raised in the presence of two drunken uncles and an aunt who was given to "love affairs," conscious that she was not pretty and beset by an extraordinary desire for "attention" and admiration, she was parked with an old Frenchwoman who was a revolutionist and an atheist by this dispirited kin who lacked the decency to try to understand a nervous little girl and give her a normal girlhood and religious training. As she revealed them to us in her own story, Mrs. Roosevelt apparently did not realize how close the resemblance was between these extravagant, sudden, materialistic relatives who molded her character and the caricatures which debased humanity for years in "To-bacco Road." They were rich and accustomed to fine living, but the news of their lives is apparent nevertheless to any observing reader. The little girl seems to have had no spirituality but only selfish emotions, mainly envy and vanity.

She confesses that she became a brain-picker early in life and never did get a basic education but just went along pretending to knowledge which she had not, by prattling superficialities. That dishonest habit became the habit of her adult mind. She could not even learn to cook — although I suspect that this was just too much hard work — and therefore contented herself by learning "to manage the people in my house."

Mrs. Roosevelt were not a politician and a propagandist, there would be no reason to discuss her personality and search for her motive but she is influential and determined still to wield the influence of her selfish character and to command renown and obedience if not admiration. And I believe in mind the fact that her old French school mistress was an atheist and a veteran of the siege of Paris of 1870. When I read her occasional significant ventures into religious affairs, I remember this.

Having in mind these facts from her book I consider a communication in the Brooklyn tablet, a Catholic weekly, by the Rev. M. D. Forrest, Geneva, Ill. In a discussion of Cardinal Mindszenty's case, Mrs. Roosevelt said that one of her own correspondents, "a man who edits a publication that claims to be completely factual, writes that the arrest is not a matter of religious persecution."

"He claims," Mrs. Roosevelt wrote, "that the cardinal is a reactionary, if not a Fascist, and a notorious anti-Semite. He also says every fair-minded correspondent in Hungary would bear him out in his assertion that the cardinal was the main opponent of the general welfare of the Hungarian people."

The practice of calling any person an anti-Semite who is opposed to communism is automatic with

Texas Downs A&M to Retain Slight Chance

Austin, Tex., Feb. 17 — (AP) — Texas retains a narrow chance at the Southwest Conference basketball title as the result of a 56-43 victory over Texas A. and M. here last night.

Texas held only a slender lead in the first half, which ended in the Longhorns' favor, 19-17. But the Steers pulled into a 32-21 lead by five minutes of the second period and were never in danger after that.

Tom Hamilton of Texas, whose 17 points were high for the game, connected in the first 30 seconds of play and Texas was never headed.

Slater Martin, Texas guard, brought his season's scoring to 300 with eight field goals for an average of 5 points for each of Texas 20 games. Bill Turnbow and John Dewitt both scored five field goals for the Aggies.

A turning point a Texas' last-half scoring was the scoring of Wilby White.

The Communists today. It is also becoming customary to call persons and Semites who merely criticize Mrs. Roosevelt and refuse to give her husband's name, "the worst and most cowardly kind of sneering is that which is effected by hiding behind another person quoted and, without expressly endorsing his calumnies, insinuating them by implication."

"Mrs. Roosevelt tells us that the writer she quotes sent her an interesting communication," he continues. "Thoughtful, well-informed readers will rather maintain that this interesting communication was forwarded to the wastebasket where the recipient (Mrs. Roosevelt) endowed with average knowledge of international events, with even a meager knowledge of the Catholic position and even an elementary sense of fair play."

"But no, the lady columnist tells us that the writer edits a paper that claims to be completely factual. Then, by innuendo, she exalts him to a pedestal from which he is worthy of a respectful and erudite hearing. If the readers were told who this fellow is and what publications he edits, they would have a different idea about him from what the columnist apparently wishes to convey. The editor of the Daily Worker easily could have written such an interesting communication."

"The use of the term Fascist in Communist jargon simply means Fascist or a genuine Democrat. To call Cardinal Mindszenty a notorious anti-Semite is to become guilty of the most flagrant and shameless defamation."

"Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in the article quoted gives us no inkling that she disagrees with the widely unfounded calumnious statements written by the wonderful correspondent whose name she withholds. She takes his statements and builds on them as if they were facts."

"Mrs. Roosevelt has already shown her hand on a number of occasions."

Father Forrest cites four such occasions in which Mrs. Roosevelt took a position on the side of Communist and fellow travelers in opposition to Catholics. He might also have recalled her interference to obtain an entrance visa for Hans Eisler, the notorious German Communist musician, and an immigration visa for the wife of Earl Browder, who had belonged to a number of Communist activities.

Mrs. Roosevelt undoubtedly is at least as ignorant as she had said she was, but there is no longer any excuse to believe that her actions are innocent blunders. She knows why she takes them. The natives may be surprised from her childish association with the atheistic, revolutionary Frenchwoman and from her aid and comfort to Eisler and Mrs. Browder.

Three Teams Eliminated in Tourney

A near capacity crowd saw three bang up basketball games last night at Hope high school as the Hope American Legion tournament got underway.

In the first game the North Heights Blue Flames had to come from behind to win over the strong Okay Crumblers by a score of 34 to 42. Thompson was high scorer for North Heights with 19 points while May accounted for 12.

The Bradley Independents also had a score in the early stages of their game with Guernsey but the Bradley boys came back to take a 42 to 28 victory. Crain led Bradley with 12 points while Downs led Guernsey with 13 points.

In the last game the Emmet sky-chiefs lived up to their name of being improved and took a 44 to 28 victory over the Blewies Legion team. Blewies gave a good account of itself but the Skychiefs were just a little too much for them. Seals led Emmet in scoring with 14 points and Montgomery led Blewies with 8 points.

Tonight the Hope Legionnaires will meet Spring Hill in the opener at 7 o'clock in a contest that promises to be tough. At 8 o'clock the North Heights boys take on Bradley in a game that is certain to be a thriller. At 9 o'clock the Emmet boys will take on the winner of the Spring Hill and Hope Legion game. The 8 and 9 o'clock games will be the semi-finals and one team will be played tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. A capacity crowd is expected to be on hand tonight and tomorrow night.

Savold's Manager Refuses to Accept Fight

New York, Feb. 17 — (UP)—Bill Daly, manager of heavyweight contender Le Savold, indicated today that he will refuse to accept a challenger's fight with Ezzard Charles by Monday, the deadline set by Champion Joe Louis.

Daly said he would make an "official" statement regarding Savold's plans tomorrow, but meanwhile, asked some pointed questions regarding Louis' deadline.

He wanted to know when "the champion" became a match-maker for other fighters' and what assurances Savold had that Louis would defend his title against the winner of the Savold-Charles fight.

Daly said Charles and Joe Bakst, had fought a "challenge" battle, not long ago at Madison Square Garden with the supposed assurance that the winner would clinch a June title fight.

Daly also said that Savold was not chasing Louis for a title match.

Holy Cross Has Sights on NCAA Title

New York, Feb. 17 — (UP) — The Holy Cross college "orphans," who have to travel 40 miles for most of their home basketball games in the Boston Garden, still had their sights set on their third straight N. C. A. A. tournament bid today.

The crusaders from Worcester, Mass., continued on the road to the N. C. A. A.'s eastern eliminations at New York by dumping Columbia last night, 55 to 49.

The victory delighted the Crusaders, who were stopped by Columbia last year after running up 6 straight victories. Bob Cousy of Holy Cross, who totaled 27 points in that humiliating defeat by the Lions last year, again showed the way with an 18-point score. However, Columbia's John Azary took top scoring honors with 21 points.

Yale warmed up for its meeting Saturday with Holy Cross by rolling up a 71 to 43 triumph over Dartmouth in an Ivy League contest. The Eli led at halftime, 40 to 21.

Kentucky mesmerized Mississippi, 65 to 31, for its 21st victory in 22 games. The N. C. A. A. defending champions breezed home with a lineup laden with substitutes after bragging a 34 to 6 lead in the first 14 minutes.

Leo Barnhorst's 13 points helped carry Notre Dame to a 59 to 42 victory over Marquette at South Bend. Marquette faded badly after cutting the Irish lead to 39-37 early in the second half.

Hamline, the only undefeated team in the nation two weeks ago, fell before the classy Phillips Oilers, 52 to 38. It was the second setback of the year for the Pipers, but they got some satisfaction out of watching their center, Vern Mikkelson, outscore the Oilers' famed Bob Kurland, 16 points to 12.

In other major games: Loyola of Chicago overwhelmed Villanova, 81 to 47, behind Dan Dluhitz's 20 points; Army flattened Fordham, 70 to 49; Navy posted a 77 to 56 triumph over Gettysburg; Cornell edged Colgate, 71 to 69; Villanova posted a 71, 35 to 53; Georgia Tech slipped past Georgia, 60 to 58; Texas remained in the Southwest conference race by defeating Texas A. & M., 56 to 42.

Whiskers Scratch After Ten Years

New York, Feb. 17 — (UP)—Mrs. Elsie Lanning, 38, of Chicago who spent two years and $6,000 searching for her missing husband, found him today and said his whiskers scratched.

Mrs. Lanning, tall, sandy-haired and well groomed, was reunited with Harry Lanning, 42, who married her 10 years ago and disappeared on Valentine's day, 1947, in a small ante-room at a Queens police station.

"I'm sorry, I don't know why I did it," he told her.

Lanning, who walked out on his job as a supervisor in a Chicago container factory, was found washing dishes in a New York restaurant under the name of Harry Manders. He was recognized by a fellow employee as the man pictured on one of the thousands of circulars sent out by Mrs. Lanning.

Lanning is tall and gaunt. His clothing was almost ragged. His eyes were dark and his cheeks sunken.

Dwight Scott of Little Rock was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Scott last week.

St. Joseph ASPIRIN WORLD'S LARGEST SELLER AT 10¢

He wore no tie. He was asked by police into the room where his wife waited after she arrived by plane from Chicago early today and the door was locked.

When she came out she said: "He told me he was very sorry for what he had done. He didn't know why he did it. He said he loved me and gave me a very big kiss. I can still feel the kiss—whiskers you know. He is going to Chicago with me."

Mrs. Lanning, who a few minutes before had been tense and nervous, was all smiles. She looked like a school girl.

"He told me he loved me and that's all that counts," she said. Reporters asked their plans.

"I don't have any plans," she said. "I can't think at the moment. I just wanted to see him. But he promised to go back with me."

Lanning was a dashing young army artilleryman stationed at Fort Sheridan, near Chicago, when he first met his bride to be. He courted her three years and bought his way out of his third hitch in the army to marry her. "I knew I would find him," Mrs. Lanning said today. Police gave up a long time ago, but she continued every day.

Little Rock, Feb. 17 — (AP)—The Arkansas house has voted to appropriate $50,000 annually for a department in a church-supported school, College of the Ozarks at Clarksville.

The appropriation technically is made to the state pharmacy board, but is worded so as to make clear its actual designation for the pharmacy department at Ozarks, a Presbyterian school. The Clarksville school has the only pharmacy section in the state.
